Before the end of last year, Dante Tyranno approached Camp Tiny Paws with the desire to run a charity Vampire: The Masquerade role playing game session with the Guests of Honor, along with a few attendees who would win the chance to join in via a charity raffle. We jumped at the opportunity, finding it a creative way to raise money for the convention's charity, the Connecticut Humane Society, and also provide entertainment for our attendees. Likewise, we had other GameMasters who have run games at our cons for years approach us to run their own regular campaigns in our Gaming Lodge using other gaming systems also published by White Wolf Publishing.

We would like it known that Tiny Paws Inc., its staff, our GameMasters, and any of the participants in our gaming events do not endorse or condone the direction the current leaders of White Wolf Publishing have taken with the new unreleased version of Vampire nor with any viewpoints any of their leadership/employees have expressed. All of our GameMasters believe in the rights of all, especially for the LGBTQ+ community, and have been using these particular gaming systems for years. The scenarios which will be used at the convention are completely original stories they have personally crafted, and, due to the content of their character, ones that can assuredly be enjoyed by all.
